A high government of-ficial also stated that through Lowe the Repossess, and that the administration officers wished to make his (Lowe's) path easy, provided he would work with the Republican This conversation took place in reference t the Hewlett charges against Lowe.

CAN ANYTHING BE DONE, through Colonel Lowe's means, to effect this second object? The only transferable vote in the South is the Republican. In Colone Lowe's district (the Eighth congressional district of Alabama) the vote stands; D. mocratic, about 13,000; Republican, 3000 or 10,000, and Independent-Greenback, about 3000. Colonel Lowe ran as an Independent 3000. Colonel Lowe ran as an independent-Greenbacker, and received the support of the Republicans. The latter vote is entirely controlled by a few influential white men. The blacks, constituting the bulk of the vote, are so completely subject to the management of these few leaders that they are frequently as hopelesely insoluble, our modern philosopher devoted his whole life to attacking them in the spirit of Herselitus and of Democritus, with results which are as the subcritus, with results which are as the subcritus with results which are as the subcritus. The blast of a horn, in order to receive their instructions how to vote. They are marched to the polls, holding their tickets in their extended hands, in order that they vote as per instructions. Consequently the good will of these few leaders is of the utmost importance to one occupying Colonel Lowe's peculiar posi-tion. And yet Colonel Lowe stated to your correspondent, knowing that his remarks would be published, "that the Republican party in Alabama was controlled by A FEW GREEDY, IGNORANT POLITICIANS, (meaning the very class of white men above)

"who did not desire that the party should be increased by the incoming of any intelligent Republican voters or work-ers," as it would cause a distribution of Fed-eral patronage that would be too thin to suit the present office-holders. These political leaders in Alabama, in the Republican racks, also complain that Colonel Lowe has hitherto used his influence to comfortably fix in good offices his Greenback supporters to the detriment of the hungry and expectant Republicans who as practically aided to sleet him. cans who so materially aided to elect him. The charges preferred by Ex-Deputy United States Marshal Hewlett (fied in the department of justice, March 27th last, and as yet unanswered by Colonel Lowe) will also probably give trouble to the aspiring "Mahons of Alabama." MISERIES OF EVICTION. We had every reason to fear that during each ensuing quarter the number would increase in arithmetical progression; for instance, in the second quarter of last year the number of exictions was three times as many as in the preceding quarter. Thus taking the proportion of increase of last year as a guide for this year, there would be 21,000 persons evicted for the current quarter, and possibly many more, as we know that the greater proportion of smaller tenants in the counties of Sligo, Donegal, Leitrim, Mayo, Galway, Kerry and parts of Roscommon, where the famine reached such an extent in 1879-80, had merely settled temporarily with their landlords by paying them six and twelve months rent on account.

seven and eight years, and in some instances fifteen years; and that as time went on, if no settlement of the arrears question took place, they would be literally turned out in thousands during the coming winter. I may mention that the Land League had done its best to relieve those poor evicted tenants at a vast expense during the winter, but that we found it absolutely impossible to do anything for more than a fithe of them, the remainder being left on the roadside or having to go into the workhouse. That was the position of the tenantry.
